8. Teachers and accompanying adults must maintain direct supervision of students at all times. Every adult accompanying students is required to be in a supervisory role and must have adequate authority from the school to handle groups. On the tour, students remain under the direct supervision of the accompanying teacher/adult, so it is the responsibility of the teacher/adult to keep the students well behaved and in a safe situation for the entirety of the tour. In the unlikely event that student behaviour is deemed to be unreasonable, unmanageable, or unsafe, the guides will give a warning to the accompanying teacher/adult. If the behaviour persists, the Old Treasury Building reserves the right to end a tour prematurely. Please note adult-student ratios on previous page.
9. Prior to arriving at the Old Treasury Building please ensure that all students and accompanying teachers/adults have been briefed regarding appropriate museum behaviours. This includes no flash photography, no pens and no food or drinks (aside from bottled water). Bags will be stowed in our cloak room prior to the tour. The Old Treasury Building takes no responsibility for belongings stored.
